The regular monthly meeting of St. Ann's Altar Society of Clermont Harbor met at the Clermont-Lakeshore Youth Center at 7:30 p. m. Monday, December 2.

After the meeting a Christmas party was held. It was a delightful surprise to the members when Santa entered. Gifts were received by all and refreshments and Christmas Carol music was enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Ruth Landry of Clermont played the part of Santa.

Members present were: Mesdames Lelia Saleeby, Irene Maher, Vivian Moffett, Nettie Burleigh, Irene Graff, Lucille Johnson, Gladys Johnson, Lillian Garcia, Henrietta Camalade, Edna Peterson, Elva Ming, Juliette Ladner, Theresa Howard, Betty Klein, Claudia Klein, Alice Teimann, and Ruth Daspi.

Buck Ladner of New Orleans spent a few days visiting with friends and relatives in Lakeshore and Clermont Harbor.

Mrs. Mabel Brown and children of Clermont Harbor had a surprise visit of old friends of hers and her late husband, La Norma and Andre and their son Gilbert Fox, circus friends.

La Norma is Denmark's renowned aerial star and does a single act in the center ring of the well known Shrine Circus.

After a fortnight here they were on their way to Sarasota, Florida for the winter months.

Get well wishes to Mrs. Maurice Woulfe, a summer resident of Clermont Harbor, who is ill in New Orleans, and to Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Charbonnet who are both in New Orleans hospitals.

Frank Simmons of Clermont Harbor brought enjoyment to four little ones Saturday by treating them to the Shrine Circus. They were Jimmy Johnson, Marilyn Garcia, and Ronnie and Lynette Williams all of Clermont.

They reported to have really enjoyed themselves and were delighted to see "The Three Stooges" in person, performing at the circus.

The Clermont-Lakeshore Youth Center in Clermont Harbor, formerly a school, was re-opened Monday, December 2, for classes of the 2nd and 3rd grades, due to the over-crowded conditions at the Gulfview School.

Plans are also under way for a six-room addition at the Gulfview School.

Funeral services were conducted Friday, November 29, at the Lakeshore Cemetery for Kenneth Courgey, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Courgey Jr., who died early Wednesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Courgey wish to extend their warm appreciation and thanks to the many relatives and friends who were so kind to them at this time of need and sorrow.

Mrs. Brady Carver, formerly Becky Nobles, was feted with a surprise baby shower, Sunday, December 1, given by Mrs. Linda Courret and Beth Erskin at the home of Mrs. Erskin.

The living room, where the guests were entertained, was decorated with blue, pink, and white crepe paper, with a large cake of the same colors decorating the center of the refreshment table. Approximately twenty guests were present and she received many lovely gifts.

Belated birthday wishes go out this week to Mrs. Tommy Godwin, who celebrated November 28.

Birthday wishes also go out to Marie Ladner, who will celebrate December 5, to Mr. Lester Haverly, who will celebrate December 6, and to Greg Kothmann, who will celebrate December 7.

Phillip Seals, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oren Seals, and Vic Aime, left Monday, December 2, to serve their time with "Uncle Sam."

There will be a benefit Sunday, December 8, at 2 p. m. at the St. John's Parish Hall, Lakeshore, to raise money for the church.

FIRE DAMAGE IN LUMBER SHED

The local fire department was called out at 9:30 Sunday morning to fight a fire in the W. A. McDonald lumber shed on St. John and Toule Streets.

Walter Saucier of the department said the fire, of unknown origin, damaged a carnival trailer, and the owners, he said, reported approximately $100 damage to the building.

CHURCH BENEFIT

An entertainment for the benefit of St. John's Catholic Church, Lakeshore, will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday, December 8, at the Parish Hall.

Proceeds will be used to purchase a vacuum cleaner and other cleaning equipment for the church. As the hall is being renovated, all those attending the affair are asked to use the rear door.

BAPTISMAL RITES

Pamela Patience Shepard, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Shepard, nee Roberta Bernond, was baptized Sunday in Sayreville, N. J.

Godparents were Mr. and Mrs. John Bacis, nee Elsie Dillmann, formerly of Bay St. Louis.

Pamela, who arrived October 23, is a granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rene Bernond Sr., of this city.

The Shepards have two other daughters Susan and Dana.

GULFVIEW CO-OP WILL MEET

Gulfview Co-op will meet at 7:30 p. m., Monday, December 9, at Gulfview School.

Water Remains Good

Water remains good weather good fishing and hunting good were the reports over the weekend. Numerous sports went out Thanksgiving and report fine catches of fish. Trolling for specks predominated and casting for green trout with underwater bait paid off. It is rather late for hard crabs but they are still being caught on hook and line while fishing on the bottom. This is one of the things that are unusual at this time of the year. They usually let up when the weather gets cold. Crabs are on the way out. A very few are being caught and are hard to buy, frozen shrimp can be bought at an ungodly price.

Rails and gallinules will never achieve the importance with our sportsmen that most other game birds have. Most rails dwell in marsh lands and are hard to hunt as they hide in the grass and are well camouflaged and fly for a short distance as they are fast and rather run. Most rails are killed along the banks on low tides when they come out to feed. There is a short season for hunting these birds. This year the season opened on Oct. 1st and closed on Nov. 10. These birds are a fine delicacy, rather small but good eating.

For sake of argument, there are six species found hereabouts. They are the purple gallinule, common gallinule, clapper rail, Virginia rail, king rail and Sora rail. It takes an experienced hunter to distinguish the different species.

According to an article in the Times-Picayune, David Lynn Johnson age 3 years staged a rabbit hunt last Thursday but scared more people than rabbits. He was found nearly two miles from home an hour after he had been missed with his dog and toy gun.

Down Texas way they laughed when John Oney, an inlander from Akron, Ohio took out his propeller equipped bait. "Kingfish," they told him, "would not hit baits with propellers."

"Could be," John said, stubbornly lying on a long colorful plug with a rattling big spinner on each end. Three hours later he had won 240 pounds of king mackerel and watched dozens of fish stage high jump contests all around him. "I certainly witnessed a scientist," said John who is trained as a scientist, and saw one jump eight feet high and come down 14 feet from where he came out of the water. He missed my bait and couldn't stop in time."

The bait which drew this feckish action was one that John developed himself, as chief of development and engineering for the Fred Arbogast Co. There is no telling what fish will hit.

Received a card from Chas. M. Fudge of Bay St. Louis who was in Bayou Poincane last month.

Fudge travels all over the world and is a chief engineer on an ocean liner. He will return to New Orleans about Dec. 17. Hope to see you then Charles.

Spent the weekend in Baton Rouge and did some fishing and golfing. Green trout really grow big up that way.

This message comes from the Mississippi Fish and Game Commission.

Our forests are still very dry. We would like to ask each and every hunter to exercise extreme caution while you are in the woods.

As yet we have not had a serious fire that can be attributed to a hunter. This fact speaks well for all of the sportsmen.

If you do go in the woods, please take every precaution possible to prevent any fire at all.

On Monday, December 2, "the bird season" opens. For the sportsmen the mention of the word "Bird" means only quail.

This season ranks closely in popularity with that of rabbit, squirrel, and deer. Countless thousands of Mississippians each year take to the field to enjoy the fine sport of bird hunting.

From all reports, this year's quail crop is up and the sportsmen should have a fine year. From reports of our field men, the average covey size this year is between 12 and 14 birds. This year's drought doesn't seem to hurt the production at all this year.

The daily bag limit is 8 and the possession limit is 16. There are plenty of quail hereabouts and our local bird hunters should have some good shooting.

Landowners are reminded to be careful in clearing fence rows since they provide cover and food for small game. A clean fence row on land with no other available cover will help eliminate rabbits and other small game.

Rabbits will not be found on any area if cover or a place to hide and rest is absent, even if the food supply is adequate. The biggest problem in management is food and cover, both of which the rabbit must have for his livelihood. On the other hand there are not many areas in Mississippi in which natural rabbit food is not available, but a limiting factor in many places is inadequate cover. Cover requirements for quail are very closely related to those of rabbits.

Biologist Pete Heard, who is in charge of the Game and Fish Commission's rabbit project, has some figures on rabbit hunting that might interest all of the bunny chasers.

"Last year," related Heard, "rabbit hunters harvested an average of 2.1 rabbits per hunt. This year hunters can expect to take 3.0 rabbits per hunt if they make the approximate length of hunt as they did last year. Most rabbit hunters are getting their share of rabbits and squirrels according to those going after them."

The deer season has opened and the deer are running. From most of our early indications a fair number of bucks are being killed. Most hunters are still of the opinion that it is too warm and dry for real Mississippi deer hunting.

In one camp last week, the operator said that a deer trail would go cold while the dogs were on it due to the extremely dry weather.

Most of the state had some rain last week, but it was not nearly enough. One deer hunter, from the delta section of the state, remarked that this was the first time in many years that he could remember not having to fight mud getting to the deer camp.

For those who like to go fishing, no matter what they catch, croakers, sheephead and small drum are biting ferociously most anywhere up Jordan River just now. A small hook, a small piece of shrimp will do the trick. Fish on the bottom.

Hunting is open on many game. Observe all hunting laws, have your license with you and be careful how you use that gun. Others may be hunting near you. Be sure you see what you are shooting at. You may save a life.

Julian Lorenzen who spends most of his time off at his favorite sport, fishing, has been getting some nice speckles up Jordan River.

FOREST PRODUCTS ACCOUNTING FOR 30 PER CENT OF INDUSTRY OUTPUT

The importance of forestry to Mississippi's economy is underscored by figures showing that state forests are supporting 32,000 jobs in our wood-using industries, with an annual payroll of more than $98 million.

About 55 per cent of all industrial establishments in Mississippi are forest dependent plants, producing nearly $500 million worth of products each year to help us enjoy a high standard of living.

Such industries are particularly important to many small communities in rural areas where timber provides jobs and is the chief source of income.

The importance of our timber resources is being recognized by industry through such programs as the American Tree Farm System. This industry sponsored program of growing trees as a crop helps private landowners gain the most benefits from their timberland by better forest management and it insures a continuous supply of raw materials from wood and paper products.

U. S. Steel's steelmaking operations in the Birmingham district use about 10 times as much water a day as the entire daily domestic consumption of the city. However, the water is cooled and recirculated an average of nine times.

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

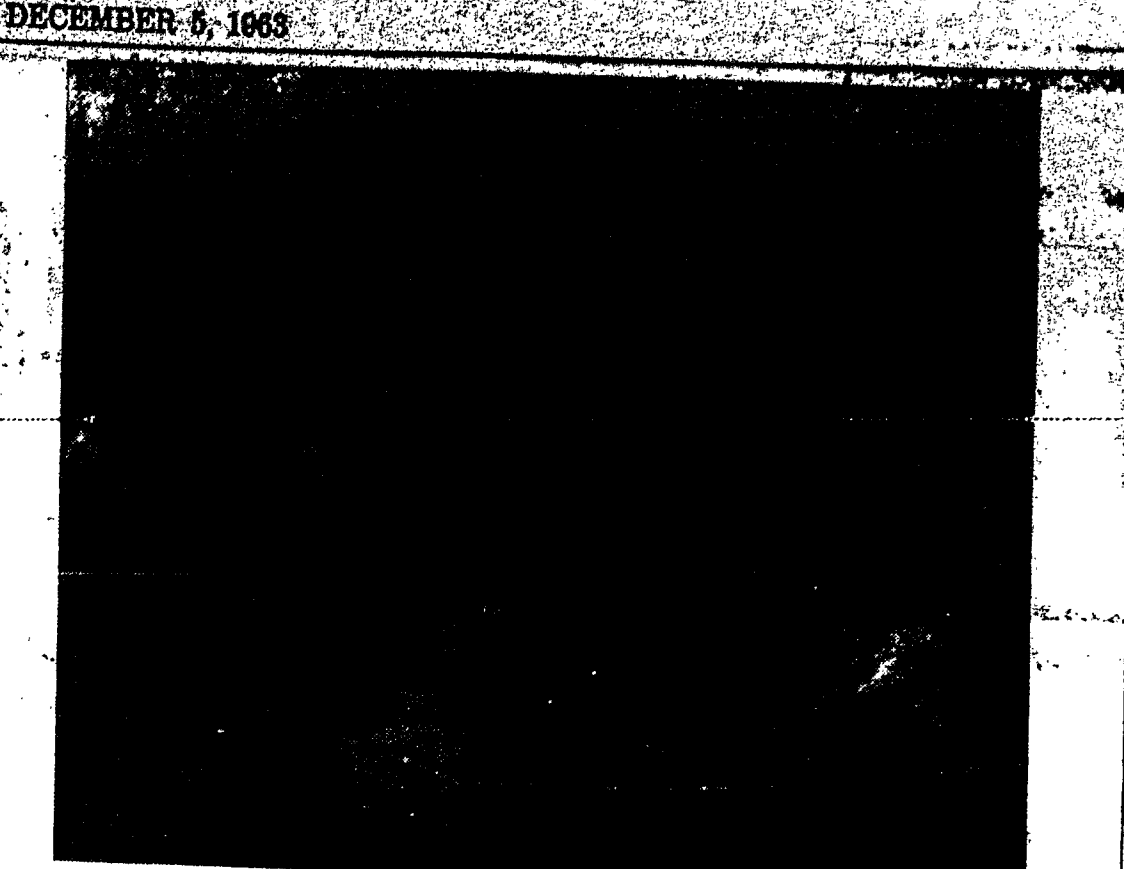

A recent Soil Conservation Service survey of 91 Mississippi flood control reservoirs in 16 counties indicates high public enjoyment of fishing and water sports. In fact, a total of 34,695 visits were reported for 1962, and uses included fishing, boating, swimming, skiing, and in some cases, duck hunting.

There have been around 200 floodwater retarding structures constructed in the state with the primary purpose of controlling floodwaters and sediment, and about 250 additional ones will probably be completed in the next four years. Many of these structures are also providing recreational benefits.

According to W. L. Heard, state conservationist, Jackson, the 91 reservoirs surveyed have been stocked long enough to permit fishing. Catches were reported "good" in 29 of the lakes, and "fair" in 34. Fifty-eight were open to anyone without charge; 24 others were free-of-charge but required permits from local landowners.

Counties involved were Calhoun, Yazoo, Union, Lafayette, Grenada, Montgomery, Webster, DeSoto, Carroll, Panola, Pontotoc, Tate, Tiptah, Benton, Tallahatchie and Yalobusha.

A. R. Burford, SCS, assistant state conservationist in charge of watersheds, said watershed projects are under way in 50 Mississippi counties and "practically every section of the state will be able to develop additional recreational facilities through this program which is locally sponsored by the soil conservation districts."

In Hancock County, Otho Rester, Chairman of the soil conservation district, said watershed projects on Hickory and Catahoula Creeks could provide good sources of water-based recreation.

A good many of the reservoirs which the SCS studied are being used regularly by groups.

On Buntyn Creek in Tallahatchie County, the Church of Christ has started construction of a youth camp. Although the lake is not managed for ducks, hunters are shooting ducks in the area.

One 60-acre lake on Tillatoba Creek in Yalobusha County was stocked with fish in 1959 and is used by many young people, church groups and civic clubs.

This beautiful lake on National Forest land offers excellent fishing, and the U. S. Forest Service has provided picnic tables, drinking water, access roads, boat ramps, barbecue pits and other facilities for visitors.

In Panola County, the Rotary Club is one civic group which uses reservoirs in the Hotophia Creek watershed.

Yazoo County has a popular lake in its Piney Creek Watershed. The surrounding land, well vegetated and forested, attracts numerous scout camp-outs, and fish are plentiful. This 15-acre lake, open without charge to the public, attracted some 2,000 visitors in 1962. A smaller lake in the same watershed, open to the public with permission of landowners, provides unusually good fishing. Here two or three pound bass were regularly taken during 1962.

The 1 kes in the study group vary in size from 5 or 6 acres to 71 acres, and in all total 1,385 acres. Some are fed continuously by live streams, and some intermittently. In most cases they are convenient to good, all-weather roads.

MISSISSIPPI JUNIOR COLLEGE

The Junior College Program is designed to provide a two-year technical education for students who are preparing for transfer to four-year institutions. Other characteristics common to the two-year colleges are comparative low costs, close relationship with the communities and strong emphasis on counseling.

Praise for the junior colleges cannot be too high nor too flowery for the work which they are doing, and every Mississippi community blessed with location of close proximity of such a college finds itself just a bit prouder because of its facility.

Now—Chevy spirit in a new kind of car!

We built this one to do more than just stand around looking beautiful. Held its weight down in the 3,000-pound range. Then built four lusty engines—two sixes and two V8's—with output all the way up to 220 horses! And if that makes you think this is one frisky car, you've got the right idea. You've also got a roomy car here. Yet its 115-inch wheelbase keeps it highly maneuverable in traffic and very easy to park. With its Full Coil suspension, it's got a ride that reminds you of the Jet-smooth kind the way it muffles noise and cushions bumps. And the fine hand of Body by Fisher craftsmen shows up beneath this one's suave good looks, too. Sound good? There's more. Like the fact that Chevelle comes in three series with eleven models—convertibles, sport coupes, sedans, wagons, even Super Sport models with front bucket seats. Take the fact that (and we if this isn't one of the nicest surprises of all) the new Chevelle comes at an easy-to-take price. Like to hear more? One of the charms of being young, is the ability to forget. That is, to forget quickly, what might appear to be a hurt, a wrong, a slight, an injury. Then, as we grow older, there is a tendency to brood over hurts, and wrongs, and injuries — real or imaginary — and sometimes we lose that beautiful mental balance, between forgetting and remembering.

There is a place to take all your hurts, your memories, your injuries of spirit; that place is your church. There you will find peace and contentment. Tie a string around your finger, now! Remember church this Sunday!

MISSISSIPPI MOTOR VEHICLE INSPECTION STATIONS

The Mississippi Motor Vehicle Inspection Stations are now open for business. The stations are located in various parts of the state and are open from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. daily.

The Safety Council believes that the inspection stations should be required to inspect all vehicles in the state. The law is complete and needs no revision except to require two inspections per year.

"What is needed," he said, "is stronger requirements to prohibit marginal and sub-marginal stations from being authorized as inspection stations."

Gracher said the Highway Patrol could not possibly inspect and enforce the regulations governing 1200 to 1300 inspection stations.

The Safety Council is a sponsoring agency of the Motor Vehicle Inspection Act, and, according to Gracher, if properly enforced will reduce accidents and traffic fatalities to the state.

MORE PROFITS PER ACRE

Despite the steady increase in size of farms, Mississippi still has many small size farms. But some of these small operators have proven that one does not necessarily have to be a big operation to make a good living.

A farm economist points out that the quickest and surest way for a small farmer to make money is to produce a high yield of crops. The Mississippi Extension Service reports that numerous studies show that about the best forest wood products are made by metal frames. Mirrors, 170 Nicholson Ave. Phone HO-7-9704

Supervisor LAVINGHOUSE seconded the motion to adopt the foregoing resolution, and, the question being put to a roll call vote, the result was as follows:

ASPIRIN TESTED AS ADDITION TO BROILER RATION

STATE COLLEGE: - Maybe aspirin can help worried chickens to grow faster. This is a possibility Dr. Bruce Glick is exploring for poultrymen in tests at the Mississippi Agricultural Experiment Station.

Chickens, Dr. Glick says, might experience fever, headache or pain as a result of infection, crowded-hot conditions or as the aftermath of vaccination. Since it's hard to detect and treat the individually "worried" or distressed chicken, he tried feeding small quantities of aspirin to several groups maintaining other groups on similar rations without aspirin.

It is not possible to successfully measure pain in chickens, Dr. Glick pointed out. However, changes in body temperature may be measured with the clinical thermometer. These experiments were designed to discover the influence of aspirin on the general physiology of the chick, including weight at 5 weeks of age.

A high rate of aspirin (.59 percent) reduced body weight significantly in the first trial. The growth suppressing effect, however, was not apparent when the drug was reduced to .15 or .07 percent in a second trial.

In a third trial fed at .30 percent appeared to be beneficial to growth. In this test half the birds were exposed to heat to check the effects of hot weather. At 61 days of age the aspirin-fed birds in both the heat-exposed and the control groups were heavier than those receiving no aspirin.

Aspirin lowered the temperature of birds exposed to extreme heat but did not affect body temperature under normal conditions. Dr. Glick seeks better control of environment as he continues to study the feasibility of feeding aspirin to chickens intermittently during hot weather.
